

Cross-ownership of media outlets goes against the very freedoms this country stands for. Media moguls should not have so much broad sweeping power to manipulate citizens through the news. How can there be accountability without local competition and alternative views?